Visit to Lloyd King—by Art Moscatello

As some of you may know, Lloyd's health has not been up to par lately. I telephoned his home recently and received no answer. I later discovered that Lloyd is now living in a living-care facility in Manassas.

Lloyd was a member of the Little Theater for several years and acted in some of our performances, participated in the variety shows, and was in the male chorus. He also designed and painted the scenery for some of the plays. Lloyd is a musician and an artist.

I visited him at Emeritus last week and spent about 40 minutes with him. He is doing well, and we had a pleasant visit talking about Heritage Hunt. He has a private room, and he had his music stand, saxophone, and sheet music at the ready to keep him occupied. I met his daughter who was visiting him, and she said he would enjoy visits from friends.

Please find the time to visit or write Lloyd and let him know we remember him. His address is Emeritus at Manassas, 8341 Barrett Drive, Manassas (telephone: 703-392-0102).

Ina introduced the cast members for the upcoming plays and had them take a bow. She and Bill are co-directing the two plays. Aileen Drennan had to drop out and Dot Schuetze will take over her roll. The plays will be held in the Mt. View Room (card room) Ina and Bill stated they are having a good time so far. A request was made for some muscle to help set up. Chuck offered the use of his truck.
